

Studying Reality as it Appears to Us

- Impressions of our views are based on physical elements and the conditions in the moment
- Decide 1) how much you want to show of the subject 2) how clear or confusing the image will be 3) how close to an everyday, average impression of a human face do you want to attempt 4) how far away do you decide to travel from it do you decide to travel in order to create the mood for the audience

What happens the moment we start changing the circumstances around a face?
